NATIVE AMERICAN GENEALOGY

BOOKS

Genealogy

This work is pre-Internet. So it doesn't have out dated web sites. In it's short 29 pages it gives you associations, location of relevant collections, types of records… It's a great thumb nail sketch for laying out your research.

The following is a link to the online chapter covering "Native American Research."

Not in the Minuteman System:

Byers, Paula K. Native American Genealogical Sourcebook. New York: Gale Research Inc., 1995. I just discovered this source. The only libraries in the immediate vicinity that own it are the Boston Public Library and Boston College. You should be able to get it through your local library through interlibrary loan. I just got a circulating copy from Boston College through ILL. It may be almost twenty years old, but it looks good and very useful. The basic information on records should still be operative. There are no website addresses to go out of date. Some archives may no longer exist, but many should. And the listings actually give phone numbers, not always an easy item to find in this digital age. If you want to buy a copy after you look at it, check out Amazon. There are a lot of withdrawn library copies that you can buy there at a reasonable price. (Good for us. Bad for libraries.)

Chronology

Chronology of Native North American History: From Pre-Columbian Times to the Present. Edited by Duane Champagne. Detroit, MI: Gale Research, 1994. R 970.004 C46C

Removals and Migrations

Reservations

Personal Narratives

This is the story of the birth of Navajo twin girls to 13-year-old Helen Tsosie at the Keams Canyon hospital on the Hopi Indian Reservation, their subsequent adoption by Albert and Wilmont Johnson of Chesterfield, Idaho (later of Hyrum, Utah) and attempts to reunite the girls with their birth mother and acquaint them with their Navajo family.

Adoptions

This is the story of the birth of Navajo twin girls to 13-year-old Helen Tsosie at the Keams Canyon hospital on the Hopi Indian Reservation, their subsequent adoption by Albert and Wilmont Johnson of Chesterfield, Idaho (later of Hyrum, Utah) and attempts to reunite the girls with their birth mother and acquaint them with their Navajo family.

Photographs

Military Records

General Reference Works

Vol. 4 History of Indian White Relations. Vol. 15 Northeast Vol. 17 Languages.
Indian Linguistic Families of America North of Mexico [by] J. W. Powell. Edited by Preston Holder.  R 371.02 U57H 1993  BY TRIBE

FIVE CIVILIZED TRIBES

These include the Cherokee, Chickasaw, Choctaw, Creek, and Seminole Tribes.

Cherokee

Chickasaw

Relations with African-Americans

PERIODICAL ARTICLES

pp. 43-47.

Note: Everton's is not online. You must find a library that has the magazine in hard copy. I used the Newton copies to hunt down the articles listed above. If you live at a distance, the library may be able to fax you a copy of the article of interest, either to your home or through ILL to your local library.

USEFUL INTERNET SITES

General Sites

Access Genealogy -- Native American - Indian Genealogy
http://www.accessgenealogy.com/native

Libraries

Native American Heritage at the National Archives
http://www.archives.gov/research/native-americans

Here you will find census records, the Dawes Rolls, and an index to the Guion-Miller Roll, as well as general articles and tutorials regarding Native American research and tutorials for using these records.

Books

Indian Scout Books
http://www.indianscoutbookstore.com

Language

The Ojibwe People’s Dictionary
http://ojibwe.lib.umn.edu

Records

Oklahoma and Indian Territories Incorporation Records
http://www.okhistory.org/research/index
How to Research the Records by Debra Spindle

BLOGS

Thoughts from Polly's Granddaughter: A Little Cherokee History and Genealogy Mixed in with a Whole Lot of Truth
http://www.pollysgranddaughter.com

There are only Three Federally Recognized Cherokee Tribes

Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma

Eastern Band of Cherokee
http://nc-cherokee.com

United Keetoowah Bank of Cherokee Indians in Oklahoma http://www.keetoowahcherokee.org

Favorite Native American Blogs of Twyla Barnes (Polly's Granddaughter).

- Aural Studios
- Black and Red Journal
- Cherokee by Design
- I am Not a Mascot
- Native Appropriations
- Original Pechanga's Blog
The African-Native American Genealogy Blog
The Buffalo Post

Read more: http://www.pollysgranddaughter.com/#ixzz31v8IO2XZU

ADOPTION

Native American Rights Fund
Tracing Your Genealogy
http://narf.org/nill/resources/roots.htm

Native American Rights Fund Sitemap
http://narf.org/footer/sitemap.html

RECENTLY REQUESTED BOOKS NOT YET OWNED BY LIBRARY

This is the story of the birth of Navajo twin girls to 13-year-old Helen Tsosie at the Keams Canyon hospital on the Hopi Indian Reservation, their subsequent adoption by Albert and Wilmont Johnson of Chesterfield, Idaho (later of Hyrum, Utah) and attempts to reunite the girls with their birth mother and acquaint them with their Navajo family.