Patrick O'Brian was an English novelist, best known for his Aubrey–Maturin series of novels set in the Royal Navy during the French Revolutionary and Napoleonic Wars and centered on the friendship of English Naval Captain Jack Aubrey and the Irish-Catalan physician Stephen Maturin. The 21-novel series is known for its well-researched and highly detailed portrayal of early 19th century life. The final book in the series was published posthumously.

The series portrays the rise of John "Jack" Aubrey from Lieutenant to Rear-Admiral in the Royal Navy. The series encompasses Aubrey's adventures and various commands along his course to flying a rear admiral's flag. Aubrey's friend Stephen Maturin, an Irish-Catalan physician, operates as a naturalist and spy.
